US Department of Health and Human Services & DePanfilis, D. (2006). Child Neglect: A guide for prevention, assessment and intervention. Retrieved from: http://www.childwelfare.gov/publications/usermanuals/neglect/.	This Guide, a lengthy resource, identifies mild, moderate and severe forms of neglect. The guide highlights physical, emotional, medical, educational, and environmental neglect. It further provides detailed information regarding the potential impact of neglect on a child's emotional, psychosocial, and behavioral development. It highlights risk and protective factors that influence a child's reaction to neglect and overviews principles of effective prevention/intervention (i.e. Exhibit 6.1, pg. 63)	http://www.childwelfare.gov/
Arizona CASA/FCRB training. (2007). Child neglect. Arizona State Supreme Court.	This article highlights neglect from the perspective of assessment, intervention and prevention. It includes useful categorizations of neglect as well as discussions about the interactions of neglectful family systems and the effects of neglect on children at different developmental stages. The causality of neglect is explored from personal/internal factors to those on the macro level. While some information pertains exclusively to Arizona, most of it is applicable to children and families anywhere.	http://www.supreme.state.az.us/casa/default.htm#
